

Workshop on Suicide Prevention in Indigenous Communities: Content thus far-

- Overview of the problem—high rates of suicide in Indigenous Communities; draw attention to the structural violence and historical and ongoing trauma that has created these issues; and link high suicide rates with not just mental health disorders but the ongoing collective trauma
- Highlight cultural strengths that interventions can use for a successful/effective program and discuss the building blocks needed in suicide interventions in Indigenous communities

Small group discussion-

Consider both the complex issue of suicide and Indigenous community strengths, and discuss where do we go from here?